I believe that single councillor wards are more effective and efficient. I live in West Ward in Portishead and previously the 2 councillors divided it up between them so if you contacted them jointly they would refer you to ‘your’ councillor. In my case this was [redacted] who never even bothered to respond. Effectively I was disenfranchised. As a previous town councillor in a 5 councillor ward it behoves all of them to work together but this is not always easy. Residents also find it difficult as they do not understand the system. Having a single point of contact makes it much easier for constituents to get help when needed. Fir these reasons I would like Portishead to have 6 councillors as now but each one has their own ward ie 6 wards and 6 councillors.
