Looking at a plan of the proposed boundary changes to bring the area known as The Elms within the Nailsea administrative area does on first impression appear justified. However, the residents of The Elms have already made it clear in previous surveys that they wish to remain within the Long Ashton parish council area. Wraxall gives the residents a sense of identity for their area, provides much needed financial support for what would be a smaller Long Ashton parish area and would mean The Elms keeping it's rural character. There seems to be little or no benefit to the residents of The Elms but it would extend the Nailsea empire and provide the Nailsea council with more funding at the expense of the Long Ashton parish. I do not see any significant benefits that the The Elms residents would see and I would therefore like to see the boundary remain as it is. Thank you.
