Previous attempts to annex The Elms by Nailsea Council were unsuccessful and a new trojan horse to benefit from the increased revenue that this would bring has been attempted again. There would be more respect and credibility if this rationale was given rather than the bogus "urban character and links into Nailsea.
I have great affection for Nailsea as I do for Clevedon, Weston Super Mare et al but chose to live and remain in Wraxall because of its current identity.
It would appear that remaining in The Long Ashton Ward means more Electoral Equality. This seems like a disingenuous reason?
Everybody knows that the identity of The Elms matches taht of the Wraxall and Failand much more than Nailsea. If it was not for financial reasons this would not be in debate.
There is currently effective and convenient local government. These new proposals would add confusion and complexity and reduce our governance currently provided by our current two councillors.
