I have lived in Rusthall for more than 30 years. I feel that it has a unique identity that should be retained. Although the village lies close to Tunbridge Wells, it is distinctly separated by Commons, woodland, farmland and green spaces. It is quite self-contained in terms of shops, pubs, library, primary school, churches etc. and has a strong community. The community ethic has led to a lot of local services and events being developed such as the annual fete, bonfire and fireworks, community larder, community cinema, many local clubs and activities, football club & cricket club. Our Councillors almost always have strong personal links to the village and have worked hard on its behalf. I think this would not necessarily be the case if Rusthall was split or merged with another ward. I feel that Rusthall should remain a ward in its own right in order to not degrade the spirit of the village and the quality of life for the residents.
