Sadly, I no longer have any faith in or respect for the majority my District Councillors (or my local MP) so this boundary change will have little meaning for me. I would much prefer it if the various Quango's focussed on enabling local people to have some real political efficacy as opposed to this pointless number shuffling. I have lost count of the times our District Council has ridden roughshod over local opinion to further their own Party interests. Our MP, being Deputy Speaker and therefore not being able to vote in Parliament is just a pointless waste of space and money. Apologies for the rant but it really is all rather pointless don't you think?
