A live in Aldock road, I recently bought my house a year ago... In this street we all use the high street as our local shops, and the doctors, dentists and schools in this area. The new proposal is that we are part of Pin Green, which is the other side of Grace Way. I don't agree that this wihtinin our interest. I personally do not venture over to that area and never have. The value of the houses in Pin Green is also considerably less than the Old Town. We moved here to remain in the old town moving from Fresson Road, for catchment area for schools, shops and an investment for our future in the property we purchased. To make this change is not within keeping of the expectations and outlook of our very close knit community/ street and to do this without consideration of the above seems to me a ridiculous adjustment to an area which has been in the Old Town since my grandparents remember. If this change was to take place we would definitely look to sell our property prior to it going live to remain without the old town and keep our future plans alive.
