I live in Prestbury and feel politically attached to Cheltenham, rather than Tewkesbury. Equally, on a CBC level, I feel politically more closely associated with Pittville and its surrounds than Wymans Brook, and when I lived in Wymans Brook, it felt much more associated with Swindon Village, both on a Parish and Borough council level. I feel the boundary line is very much the Evesham Road, and everything to the west belongs more naturally to Swindon Village. As the Playing Field in Prestbury is very much the centre of Prestbury, to have the boundary of both the Parish and Borough ward so close down Prestbury Road doesn't seem right to me. The new GP Surgery to be in Pittville is a case in point. I would focus Prestbury more along the entire length of Prestbury Road, rather than stretching west instead. I would also like the new build houses around Desert Orchid Road to be incorporated into Prestbury Parish. The residents there have to drive on to Prestbury High Street to access their properties, and to be attached to Southam is plainly ridiculous.
