Comment text:

We have noticed that Featherstone is being increasingly linked with Essington. In fact one of the candidates for the local elections, listing all the areas that he represented, never even mentioned Featherstone, although Essington was mentioned a few times. There is a natural divide between the two communities, that being the M54. As a resident of Featherstone I do not want any connection with Essington, as I believe the latter will be given preference in any decision making.
