It is impossible to comment on matters where no detailed information is given on why the Boundary Commission believes that the number of Councillors should be reduced. Why is change necessary? What is unfair or inefficient in the current arrangements? The emphasis should be on improving the efficiency and cost effectiveness of what we have at the moment.. The very consultation and consequent reorganisation will cost goodness knows how much. To what purpose.? Unless that is to achieve quantifiable improvement in services and reduction in Council Tax I see no benefit coming from this process. Given the financial pressures which the whole Country will have to face in the next goodness knows how many years, this kind of exercise is completely unnecessary and will only make a bad position worse.. There are many, many, more important issues to be addressed..
