Comment text:

The population of residents in wards in Epsom & Ewell are significantly smaller than what appear to be the average in adjoining London Boroughs but the allowances paid to councillors in London are more than double those of their counterparts in Epsom & Ewell. Having said this there must be scope for some economies by growing the size of some wards and I would support this. I believe there is also scope for assimilating the functions of the Borough with the County. Several of the wards in the North of the Borough seem very small. Could one of these be deleted and merged into adjoining wards?
