When you are considering the revision of the electoral boundaries of the Hackleton Ward, could you please bear in mind the fact that the northern boundary of Cogenhoe and Whiston Parish boundary is actually a few yards south of where it ought to be?

Part of Cogenhoe Mill Caravan Park sits in Wellingborough Borough which is now in North Northamptonshire, making the administering of the caravan site difficult. This was always the case when Cogenhoe Parish was in South Northants, but must be even more problematical now with the two new authorities..

The boundary at present is the brook to the south of the canalised section of the River Nene that runs through the lock, not the actual lock cut itself, which means that a few mobile and static homes on the Caravan park are in Ecton Parish.

Please use this opportunity to rationalise this boundary once and for all.
