As a resident of a street which would move from Urmston to Stretford under the new proposals I strongly object to the plan. Unfortunately house prices are determined by demand and the value of my home like many of my neighbours would likely drop significantly if we were to be moved into the Stretford ward. Urmston has recently become a very desirable location to live which has been reflected in current home values whether I agree with it or not. A decrease in property values due to a ward change could and will probably push many households into negative equity and apply financial strain on families. Other financial implications could include increased motor insurance policy costs and household content insurance premiums. Many people will have purchased their homes around us purely due to fact that they were within the Urmston boundary. Financials apart, we could also see doctors surgery's abandoning patients as has happened previously based on address. I would have a guess that if this was to be put to vote, a very large majority of the affected homes currently sat within Urmston ward would strongly object to these proposals. [REDACTED].
