Personally I think that the part of Oxley between Stafford Road and the canal should be part of Bushbury. Then the whole of Bushbury should be divided differently, maybe into 3 or even 4 regions. I'm in Bushbury North but the area that I tend to use includes this part of Oxley. I have friends who live in Oxley but their children go to school in the Bushbury North region. It might be worth looking at the local primary schools - which areas do most of the families live in whose children attend each of these schools? Then also include Rakegate school in the Bushbury area.
