I would like to ask a few questions. How much public money has been spent on setting up this Commission? How will it benefit the electorate if the boundaries are changed? What do the existing Councillors think about it? If there is to be one Councillor for any particular area who do we contact when they are ill, on holiday or absent for any other reason? Why has it been considered necessary to make these changes? COMMENT in the 1970s the map of England was re-drawn with boundaries being changed, old Counties disappearing and new ones being invented. I'm still waiting to see how it benefitted ordinary people.
