I think it is a step forward to separate Whitehawk from Kemptown. I worked on Whitehawk regeneration projects for some years and there is no relationship between the two areas. Indeed eB4U spent money closing most of the connecting passages as part of a community safety project. I think you are building in a problem by including the old gasworks within the new ward as when that is developed the additional population will swing the gravity of the ward away from Kemptown Village with its close links to Queens Park. I think the Western End of the new ward from St Georges Church is better within Queens Park ward. In the same way that the bottom end of East Brighton ward (around Prince regents Terrace) are better with the Marina.
