I can see no logic in incorporating the Brunswick and Adelaide Ward of Hove into the Regency Ward of Brighton. This would mean joining the residents of Brunswick and Adelaide with Brighton residents with whom we have nothing in common, would not look after the interests of the residents of our Ward, with its historic conservation area and its number of active community groups, all of which foster a feeling of identity which is one of the criteria the Commission have to follow. The original Brunswick Town buildings are clearly visible today. This loss would destroy the historic nature of both Hove and Brighton. We are sure you wouldn't wish this.
