Strongly object to division of Patcham/Hollingbury. There seems to be no reason behind the division, it is changing something that works and has been this way for decades. As someone resident in BN1 8 am concerned that this will negatively affect house prices in our area. Hollingbury and Carden are seen as far less desirable than Patcham. Lumping the 2 together is making an unnecessary divide and only reinforcing that these are the so called 'poor relation' in comparison to Patcham proper. Myself and neighbours in the proposed Hollingbury and Carden area very much feel that we are part of the Patcham community and it would feel extremely disappointing to cut us out of a community we have long been a part of.
