Regarding Wychavon District and the proposed boundary changes to Elmbridge and Hartlebury I can only assume that the purpose of this ideology would only be to serve as a precursor to allow area or land classification change to allow easier future development or expansion of the village or local area? Has this been assessed to show improvements locally? What are the published reasoning criteria and procedure behind such a proposal? What guidelines are being followed and what affect will proposed changes have to the local issues and services in each area? Have the local populous been informed and understand any potential impact of boundary changes and how it will affect the village and their quality of life? There seems to be no logical explanation to proceed until those can be presented for judgement and approval. What added value will it give for residents? Please provide those answers and publish them locally so that that is understood first. Regards, [REDACTED]
Cutnall Green resident.
