The Lynemouth county council ward boundaries were set over 100 years ago. The northern edgeruns along the course of the river Lyne from the village to the sea. This is ridiculous as the course of the river is artificial, and the boundary runs through the middle of the biomass power station - leaving the whole industrial complex there split between three CC wards. It would make sense to move the northern boundary (Lynemouth / Druridge Bay), either to follow the modern course of the river - or - even further north, bringing Lynemouth beach into Lynemouth ward. I would do this by taking a line from where the northern boundary joins the river (Chugdon woods stream or thereabouts) NE to the northern end of Lynemouth beach. I would do the same thing with the parish council boundary as it would make jurisdiction over the southern tip of Cresswell parish much more logical.
