Why is money being wasted on this? There are far more important matters than fixing the electoral boundaries. Like Shropshire Council realising there is life South of Shrewsbury. Ludlow is being developed at a rapid rate, but there is no employment for younger residents, therefore they are having to look elsewhere, meaning the retired are the only people able to afford to buy a house in the town. A town of this size should have its own Job Centre, not make the unemployed travel out of the County to Leominster. Forget boundary changes and encourage more investment in fixing our town.
