I support the LGBCE aim to have single member divisions. I feel strongly that residential communities must NOT be split between divisions even if that means some divisions fall outside the expected range of numbers of electors. There are 2 particular areas of Shropshire where this applies: The settlement of Bayston Hill is a clear well defined community and the electoral division boundary should be the same as the Parish Council boundary. The settlements around St Martins, whose children attend St Martin's School, are again a clear community. The numbers in this division could be adjusted to fit the expected range by moving Duddeston Heath into The Meres and moving Harmer Hill, Myddle and Broughton parish into Tern.
