The current division of Warlingham is arbitrary and creates two wards with different characteristics: Warlingham West is purely urban, but Warlingham East includes a large rural hinterland. Given the north-south nature of transport links in the area, much of that rural area looks as much towards Addington and Selsdon as it does Warlingham. I would suggest a single ward for Warlingham (or two wards, but following the Parish boundary with a division to give an even population balance), and then Chelsham and Farleigh should either standalone with a single Councillor or be added to Titsey and Tatsfield
