I have had considerable difficulty trying to upload the maps showing the new suggested boundary lines, but from what I can understand High Brooms is divided right through the middle . The local church primary school St Matthews and its affiliated and supporting church, would be in different wards, with the proposed boundary change . High Brooms is a naturally relatively deprived community, with no medical centre, library, social or eating spaces. The population are very naturally aligned with Southborough, especially since the building of the new Southborough hub, with medical centre, library and entertainment space, football club etc. I feel strongly the proposed boundary change will not reflect the High Brooms community's position at all. Councillors representing High Brooms should surely be also be representing Southborough, not moving High Brooms to an add on to TW?
