Hi, I don't believe that it is fair or just to split the village of widdrington between two areas. You wouldn't do that to Morpeth for instance. If by adding our village to one ward, creates a significant increase of voters in that area, then I would suggest you consider the boundary in the opposite direction, or perhaps.

As im aware, The council are paid by the public, whether it be via government taxes or council tax direct from its constituents, to ensure a fair and more importantly, ensuring a just service is provided to public - splitting a village up into two wards simply doesnt achieve that.

We have a parish that work hard for the village, having seperate districts / wards would make funding more difficult, difficult planning, and difficult voting at elections, etc.

Widdrington is not a small village, its is rapidly becoming a small town - simply without the amenities we are continually promised - We are continuously forgotten about, overlooked, and treat like second class citizens within our own county. Again, you would not split Morpeth down the middle using the high street as a division to accomodate your proposals, so why would you implement a nonsensical idea, to split widdrington up because there is a railway line?

Northumberland county council stupidity at its best.
