Related subject: The proposal to merge Chaldon with Westway

I strongly disagree with the proposal to merge Chaldon and Westway into one ward of three councillors.

Chaldon is, and has always been, a distinct parish council in its own right. It also has its own Village Council. There is a distinct difference between the accommodation and culture in Chaldon and Westway. Combining the two will severely diminish local democracy and erode the traditional boundaries between the two.

Chaldon is rightly proud of its distinct heritage, history, and architecture which goes back to 1086. This is completely different to Westway which has only really been developed within the last 100 years. This distinction should be maintained politically.
