Related subject: Church Pulverbatch Parish

Church Pulverbatch has a strong community identity and is very linked to communities to the north rather than the south. Although not a church goer I know our parish church is linked with those in Longden, Annscroft and Hanwood with joint ministry and events. As regards schooling most primary age children go to Longden and a Church Pulverbatch resident is one of the governors there. Secondary children mainly go to Pontesbury which is also where most local people are registered with the doctors and dentist. Pontesbury is also the site of our closest library, post -office, agricultural merchants and a number of shops. I far as I am aware there are no significant or natural links with Bishops Castle. I would suggest that Church Pulverbatch is a better fit with Longden than is Bicton Heath.
