The County Boundaries in Evesham (population c 24,000) will need more than two Councillors. My suggestion is that the two Divisions that have the bulk of the town share the town centre. The third division (most likely Harvington can then take a portion of the town entering from the North (Avon Ward) to make up the appropriate electoral numbers, That way two Councillors who have the most interest in the Town can focus on the towns assets from a County perspective. To do otherwise will involve splitting the town three ways radially from its centre. This would not be in line with local community boundaries.
