Comment text:

I strongly oppose separating Long Ditton from Thames Ditton.

This area has been known as The Dittons for hundreds of years and we are intrinsically linked by history and public spaces.

There are no distinctive boundaries between Long Ditton and Thames Ditton.

We share a boundary with the River Thames, Long Ditton rec, Stokes Field Nature Reserve, The Dittons annual fair, pubs, a scout group, Giggs Hill Green, Thames Ditton Farmers' market, Thames Ditton Library ...and may other local landmarks.

Thames Ditton boundary cuts into Hinchly Wood at Claygate Lane, The Manor Farm and Dene Gardens - I would suggest straightening the boundary in this area to make them part of Hinchley Wood.
