Related subject: Charlton

I am very surprised to see Charlton, including the new development of Kingsgrove, being carved off Wantage and put together with a variety of villages, and I do not support this proposal.

Charlton and Kingsgrove (when it is completely built) are part of Wantage from a geographical point of view - there is no separation of any kind. When we moved here, it was because we wanted to move to Wantage and it so happened that the house we loved was at the east of the town, in Kingsgrove. In no way did we ever think we had more in common with the surrounding villages than with the town. Councillors that represent rural villages will have different priorities to those representing "suburbs" of a town, and rightly so. Asking them to come together to make decisions is very odd and will only lead to one "set" of people being satisfied, if any at all.

I would strongly urge that Charlton be kept with Wantage.
