Related subject: Wantage / Charlton

I strongly oppose taking Charlton out of the Wantage division and lumping it with Blewbury. Geographically, Charlton is a part of Wantage. From a community perspective, the residents of Charlton hardly have anything in common with Blewbury. As a resident in Charlton I utilise the facilities and services provided by Wantage and I believe I should have the right to therefore vote in this council election and play a part in the decisions made here. I am also a part of the Wantage community and feel that this is a truly unwelcome change, causing further divide between the newly built Kingsgrove estate and the older parts of Wantage. I feel this does not foster the sense of community we worked so hard to build in Wantage. There are miles of fields between Charlton and the Hendreds, and even more miles of fields between Charlton and Blewbury. Meanwhile Charlton is geographically attached to Wantage. It simply makes no sense to be bundled with a small village we have no physical connection to.
