The Parish Council at its meeting in January considered the proposed two Councillor division of Wythall to include the parishes of Alvechurch, Barnt Green, Beoley and Wythall.

Wythall Parish is currently divided, sitting within two divisions, north and south. The south division also includes Alvechurch and Beoley whilst the north division is solely Wythall. The north and south divisions of the parish receive different levels of representation from County Councillors. Residents in the division paired with Alvechurch and Beoley are underrepresented in comparison to the north division.

The Parish Council having considered the effectiveness of the current setup and based on its ineffectiveness object to the proposal and believe that the area would benefit significantly from being a standalone division. Though this may not align with percentage requirements, consideration should be taken to the fact the local plan is incomplete. Completion of the plan may have an impact on the figures.

The Parish Council strongly request that an amendment to the proposal is made to create a division solely for Wythall Parish, with the boundary of the division mirroring the boundary of the Parish. A one Councillor division.
