I don't agree with moving boundaries or councils when they have been in place for so long. People buy properties based on certain factors including postcode/council and these can impact house values and school applications. This can have quite big implications. Have these things been considered? will compensation be given if there is any impact - I highly doubt it. Moving boundaries based on number of people in one council seems quite drastic for the impact it could have and I'm sure there are alternative solutions. I am opposed to this change.
