I have been resident of Belbroughton for 14 years and am very much part of the community of Belbroughton. We use the local doctors in Belbroughton, the local shop, are members of Belbroughton tennis club, use the local pubs and regularly walk through the countryside of Belbroughton and Clent. We equate with the area and never use any facilities in Catshill. To move us to a different area would change how we relate to our home and our community. Using our local community allows us to minimise our carbon footprint ensuring that we do as much as we can to save the planet. Belbroughton is a rural area and we equate with that and moving us to Woodvale would move us to a suburban area. I am concerned that the local government boundary commission failed to consult us about this change. We only found out about it from a neighbour. We received no letters, emails or leaflets. In a democratic society it is vital that those being affected by decisions are adequately consulted. There has been no adequate communication or consultation.
