Related subject: Dewsbury

It feels as though Dewsbury has been abandoned & given up on! The town has seen a massive decline, has more derelict areas than not & has Eastern Europeans operating within what appears to be ghetto conditions. The town centre is so run down, there is nothing to bring custom & the fact that parking costs is a joke. Why would anyone want to pay to visit the town that is Dewsbury when 10 minutes down the road you can park for free at White Rose. There is no effort to make change to keep up with modern shopping habits, the town is living in the dark ages. It's shocking that no opportunities are offered to Huddersfield on a continued basis - ridiculous planners are a perfect example. quite honestly, the councillors give an impression of people who really don't care & are taking advantage of their position. I personally would like to see a complete clear out of the current councillors, I have no trust in them.
