Comment text:

I live in the proposed Riverside Ward and agree with this name for the ward. Currently I am in Washington East but would have been in Washington South under initial proposals. This would have been confusing for residents who would struggle to understand how they had gone from East to South overnight. It was therefore not appropriate to keep compass point names, so these proposals are stronger for making use of village names.

I do not, however, agree with the comments that Herrington is not a single area. This is a collection of villages known as the Herringtons and they would make a sensible ward. I'm aware some people are saying Riverside might be confused with the Riverside Sunderland development project, but that will be finished by 2026 and won't be used widely for there to be any confusion.
