I'd like to see Walnut Tree removed from the Monkston ward and placed into the Danesborough and Walton ward. Walnut Tree is the retail/educational/health/community heart of Walton (Parish council area) and every single other part of Walton parish is in Danesborough and Walton. This creates situations where working across 2 ward councillors becomes tricky, assuming they're interacting across political lines - or in the case of one situation where our parish council is asking for double-yellow lines, those would straddle wards, slowing down progress for residents unnecessarily.

In addition, Danesborough and Walton should itself be cleaved in to 2 pieces. I would suggest anything west of Newport Road becomes a 'Walton Ward' and anything east a Danesborough Ward (i.e. Wavendon Village, Woburn Sands, the Brickhills, and the new eastern expansion estates like Glebe Farm, Eagle's Farm etc.).

This would create a more sizeable set of wards in this end of the City and ensure that as further eastern expansion occurs, a degree of future proofing is in place and that the needs of ALL residents in this ward (as it stands today) do not become diluted due to size and growth.
