This consultation yet again has been made so deliberately convoluted and complicated so as to frustrate the public into not bothering, this is being done with the intention of making objection to changes in boundary and devolved administration harder to say no to. It gives the appearance that the decisions are already taken, a done deal, just like the merging of the council! A public vote should and is the only legitimate and true method to determine the wishes of those who gave the council their permission to act for Them. Complex and Obscure Consultations without referendum are undemocratic at best!
