Overall there are too many Councillors. But, reducing the number means a higher work load for the remaining few, this may cause problems. I think it would be better to merge areas, as an example; Meols to Heswall wards become one. The appointed Councillor's could share work and views across a wider area giving a better overall feel and outcome.

Another possibility, merge wards to include areas of all political parties. If all political parties were equally represented and shared by the appointed Councillor's, this would give a better understanding of the needs of each, working together rather than against each other.

If I was running the Country I would Scrap Local Councils appointed on political grounds. All Local Councils should work for ALL of the people within the Borough. Politics should NOT come into it at local level. Leave politics for central government. Local Councils should work for all the local people equally without favour to any political persuasion.
