I do not believe the Parish of Winsham should be in the same division as Ilminster. There are two nearer towns to Winsham village of which Crewkerne would be a better match as residents rarely go to Ilminster from here. The villages between Winsham and Crewkerne are socially and physically connected with a B road, share similar community needs being in a rural setting and people attend shops and social events in Crewkerne. Crewkerne is also a rural small town in touch with its rural surrounding villages. Chard has a much more urban based community with more limited social connections to isolated rural villages, hence placing Winsham in with Crewkerne Division would make far more sense than the current inappropriate placement with Ilminster.
