Related subject: Parish Boundary

1: The map attached to this is confusing and does not agree with the printed version I have.

In particular, the road passing through Godney has been given a name, Riverside, whereas in reality, the road has no name. Riverside is the name of the short road at the western end of the village where the row of ex-council houses are all numbered. No other house in the village has a number.

2: The line of the parish boundary on my map crosses the bridge at Godney cross roads so that the eastern parapet is not in the village. Neither are Garslade Cottage or Godney House. Garslade Farm is not included in the parish. The site of The Godney Gathering, at Garslade Farm, is not in the village. Hence applications to hold the event do not come to the Godney Parish Council. I would suggest that the boundary at this point be moved to include Garslade Farm and Godney House.

3: There are portions of the parish close to Mudgley where the residents never come into the village. They are much closer to Wedmore and that is their natural centre. They could be moved out of Godney parish.
