Removing the North Ridge estate from the Great Broughton ward is unjustified and disrupts the integrity of the community. The derwent forest area is both geographically and functionally intertwined with the surrounding settlements and landscape of Great Broughton. Its exclusion would impose an artificial boundary that fails to represent local identity, shared interests, and long-standing community ties. The North Ridge Estate benefits from a paved footpath, enabling members of the public to walk safely into the town of Great Broughton. By contrast, there is currently no safe pedestrian route that provides access to Broughton Moor on foot.
